ATHENS DEVELOPMENT & GOVERNANCE INSTITUTE

A.D.G.I. – INERPOST

The Athens Development and Governance Institute ADGI INERPOST was established in 1992 as a non-profit organisation in Athens, Greece. The founder was Gerassimos Arsenis, former Minister and Governor of the Bank of Greece.

The ADGI–INERPOST is a Non-Governmental Organisation (NGO), registered with the Bureau of International Development Cooperation (YDAS) of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Hellenic Republic.

According to its Charter, the ADGI–INERPOST participates in a wide range of activities, including the following:

- ✓ Analysis and recommendations related to policy issues including Economic and Social Development, Foreign Policy, Defense and Security, Education, Culture, and Governance.
- ✓ Policy dialogue at the national and international level regarding economic interdependence, growth, investment promotion, environmental protection, management of immigration flows and best use of new technologies.
- ✓ Elaboration, implementation and evaluation of development cooperation and development assistance programmes to alleviate poverty, promote sustainable development, fight social exclusion and safeguard human rights.

ADGI-INERPOST seeks to achieve its objectives through policy analysis and dialogue, as well as through implementation of related programmes in its fields of competence. In this connection, the Institute seeks to strengthen its networking activities in Greece and abroad with relevant public, private and international Institutions and agencies, including the N.G.O. Community.

The management of ADGI-INERPOST is carried out by its Board of Directors which is nominated by the General Assembly of the shareholders. President of ADGI-INERPOST is Dr. Sotiris Mousouris, former Assistant Secretary General, United Nations.
